Raleigh is home to 10 traditional universities and colleges and numerous satellite campuses and for-profit institutions of higher education, the Raleigh area is rich in educational opportunities and potential for additional partnerships. Among the traditional colleges are North Carolina State University, a major research center; a private women's college; a law school; and two seminaries.

As one of the three "corners" of the Research Triangle Region, Raleigh's academic research network is enhanced by the presence of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and by Duke University and North Carolina Central University in Durham. All of these N.C. universities are within a 45-minute commute of each other and from The Research Triangle Park, one of the nation's largest and most prestigious R&D business parks.

Shaw University is unique in that the institution can boast that we are the only HBCU with 9 satellite campuses in North Carolina. Our campuses are in the following cities from the coast of North Carolina to the Mountains; Ahoskie, Rocky Mount, Greenville, Fayetteville, Raleigh, Durham, Fayetteville, Wilmington and Asheville.

The main campus houses the vast majority of faculty. Our Computer Science and Business Department have touted extensive partnerships with various businesses in the downtown Raleigh Area. We recently upgraded our classroom spaces to infuse more "Smart Classrooms" and upgrade technology.
